Jaunel Deans

High School Student
New York, New York, United States

Summary

Jaunel Deans, a dedicated student currently enrolled at Thomas A. Edison Career and Technical Education High School. Jaunel is expressing a sincere interest in Design Thinking and Web Development and is actively seeking a position that will allow the application of acquired skills and strengths to enhance workforce capabilities.

Having undertaken numerous projects, Jaunel brings a wealth of experience that could significantly contribute to your company's objectives. The professional journey commenced as a participant in the Summer Youth Employment Program at Queens Community House, where Jaunel engaged in Project Based Learning, resulting in the refinement of workplace skills and a heightened sense of community engagement. She also volunteers at her church's soup kitchen and health fair whenever she is available. Jaunel is a part of a church program called the Pathfinders where she goes on excursions to help the community.

It is Jaunel's belief that the skills and experiences acquired make for a valuable contribution to a dynamic and growth-oriented organization such as yours. Jaunel is enthusiastic about the opportunity to discuss how this alignment can be mutually beneficial.

Your consideration of Jaunel's application is greatly appreciated. We look forward to the prospect of contributing to and flourishing within your esteemed team.
